About the only development in the situation yesterday was the fact that Parley P. Christensen's strength in P. P. Veber county was overestimated when the returns first came in, and that his strength in Salt Lake county was underestimated. While there seems to be but little doubt that the Howell men will have a big majority of the 140 delegates from this county, it is nevertheless a fact that Mr. Christensen has more delegates from this county than he was first given credit for. There seems to be a substantial basis for his claim that he has the First precinct of Salt Lake almost solidly. Moreover, he has scattering delegates from elsewhere in the county.

To its long line of successes, the Salt Lake Opera company, in its revival of "The Wedding Day," has added another success that can only be described as absolutely brilliant. In a review of last night's performance the superlatives can hardly be checked, and rarely have superlatives been so thoroughly deserved. The great audience—it filled practically every superlatives been discussing public ownnight's performance the superlatives can hardly be checked, and rarely have superlatives been so thoroughly deserved. The great audience—it filled practically every seat on three of the four floors of the theatre—was more genuinely enthusiastic than an audience has been in that house for many a month. The opera was worthy of the audience and the enthusiasm.

The Sait Lake Opera company last night was an organization of which this musicloving city has every reason to be proud, even boastful. Certainly no city of its size in the United States could even approximately duplicate that much real talent from the ranks of its amateurs. Amateurs? A stranger would have found it People have been discussing public ownership with the idea that the federal government would own the railroad and it seemed that that was fraight with dan-ger, because I believe in the Democratic dectrine of local self-government

Amateurs? A stranger would have found it hard to believe that principals and chorus did not belong to a professional organization, with months of training and years of prestige behind it. To those who have not yet seen the opera this may seem extravagant. The answer is, go and see it for yourself and come away convinced. It is hard to find anything new and good to say of John D. Spencer as a comedian. The vocabulary of compliments regarding this veteran of the local stage was long since exhausted. But last night Mr. Spencer fairly outdid himself. If John Spencer fairly outdid himself. If John Spencer fairly outdid himself. If John Spencer had chosen the stage, instead of the life insurance business, as his vocation, he would have set DeWolf Hopper, Jeff De Angelis, Frank Daniels and the other so-called light opera comedians so far back in the shadows that they would have had to keep the electrics burning throughout all the hours of the twenty-four. He was on the stage a good deal last night and there was never a moment when he was not funny, never a moment when he was not funny, never a moment when the audience was not ranging from gliggles to paroxisms of laughter at and with him.

Surface Indications.

A newcomer in the cast, and one in whose work great interest centered, was Miss Agatha Berkhoel, who sang the role of Lucille. Salt Lakers have known that Miss Berkhoel is the possessor of a magnificent voice, but they have never heard it to such good advantage as last night. Miss Berkhoel fairly won a large share of the henors. "These questions I have discussed are Miss Berkhoel fairly won a large share of the honors.

Of the other members of the cast it can only be said that it would have been difficult to improve on them. Miss Edna Dwyer as Madame Montbazon. George D. Pyper as Raoul. Fred C. Graham as Planchette, Hugh W. Dougall as Duc DeBouillon, H. S. Ensign as Sergeant Souffle, Miss Margaret Harley as Aunt Hortense. Mrs. Bessie Browning as Mile. Renee. Miss Lillian Hudson as Mile. Virliers. Miss Minnie Kingdon as Mile. Varney and Miss Ruth Wilson as Mile. Courcey, were all splendid.

Of the chorus it may fairly be said that in tone volume, in ease and promptness of surface indications of a still deeper ques-tien. It is a question between plutocracy and the people. It is the question whether the wealth of this country is to be gar-nered in the hands of the few by privileges given out to those who can control the government. I think the time has come for the people to consider and they are considering this question."

"The sugar beet and the sugar beet industry is well understood in Germany, said Mr. Kaumanns last evening, "having been carried on there for years and years, while out here it is practically in its infancy. I am not at all sure that some of the methods in vogue among your farmers are those most conducive to the best interests of either the man-ufacturer or the grower.

"The general tendency here seems to be toward producing a small light beet rich in sugar making properties, and a pro-nounced antipathy toward anything other than this same small variety. Such experiments as have been made have been incomplete, and for the most part only half successful, and the result is that Germany is able to produce a much larger beet than that grown in Utah containing all the sugar making properties of the the sugar making properties of the Utah product.

"It would seem from the number and importance of these voluntary reductions. that many carriers recognize that their rates were too high at the time of the enactment of the Hepburn law. It also seems that they are preparing for the operation of the new law, under which freight rates cannot be changed with the facility that formerly was the rule." Rickeson left Logan Wednesday, and it is understood that he and his wife had trouble. She refused to have anything to do with him, and unable to stand it any longer Rickeson came to Salt Lake yesterday morning. He had been drinking heavily all day and talked to two or three acquisitances about his femily affairs. facility that formerly was the rule

GARDNER SUNDAY STORE NEWS.

RESOLVED ITS FUN TO BE WELL DRESSED THAT WHEN YOU SEND YOUR CHILDREN TO SCHOOL, GOOD CLOTHES ARE AS ESSENTIAL AS GOOD SCHOOL BOOKS YOU KNOW THAT: A WELL DRESSED CHILD TAKES MUCH MORE INTEREST IN ITS STUDIES. AND THE DEAR TEACHER SHOULD BEGIN THE TERM WITH NEW CLOTHES. GO WHERE YOU GET THE BEST VALUE. THATS ARITHMATIC . BUSTER BROWN. READIN RITIN RITHMATIC COPYRIGHT 1906 BY THE

Is not dressing well one of the best lessons your children can learn? Have them begin early to learn how to dress nice and be neat and they are almost certain to retain the habit.

> Dressing well is a good habit; dressing carelessly is a poor habit. With a child much depends upon how they are started out by their parents.

A boy is not well dressed if his Clothes look as though they were large enough for his father, or small enough for a younger brother. Don't think he would look well in such Clothes even though they cost a fortune, do you? But you will agree that he would look neat in cheap Clothes

> Dressing well is knowing how to buy that which conforms to the individual personality and does not mean that one's appearance is governed entirely by price consideration.

The Gardner store will help you to dress well with little money. Courteous salesmen will take pleasure in advising you when requested.
